

In 2019, we received several thousand votes. This year we chose to use Microsoft's Forms software to collect the data. Unfortunately, we received thousands of submissions from what appears to be several bots voting for different podcasts. After publishing the voting form, we realized that Microsoft's form software does not have a feature that will filter spam or block bots from submitting a vote. In the pages to follow you will be able to review how many votes each podcast received. The podcasts noted with "VOID" were disqualified from our tally this year because we were unable to count votes accurately. Unfortunately, voting patterns and time between submissions suggested that a bot was used to cast many votes. This does not mean that the podcast creator employed a bot, but it does mean that someone likely selected their podcast as one of the four to submit in the bot's response.

You can download a CSV of all the votes collected to here:

Next year, we will use different survey software to improve your experience and the accuracy of our results.

Over the last few years, the number of dental podcasts has increased exponentially. Today, there are more than 70 dental-specific podcasts. As such, I decided to break the voting into two categories—Dental Hygiene + Dentists/Other. This year's winners are:

Dentists/Other:

1. Nobody Told Me That! With Teresa Duncan
2. Dental Implants and Worms
3. Voices from the Bench
4. The Life and Dentistry Podcast

Dental Hygiene:

1. Tooth or Dare
2. A Tale of Two Hygienists
3. Dental Podcast Network Channel 1
4. Dental Podcast Network Channel 2

The homepage of DentalPodcast.org has been updated to reflect these changes. Thanks again for everyone's support and participation in this project. We hope that the data is cleaner next time.

Happy New Year!
